BREAKING NEWS!

The situation at the Arctic Circle worsens as temperatures continue to climb. Dubbed as the worst melt of the century, this summer proves to be a harrowing one for the bears of the Arctic Ocean.

Scientists calculate that if the temperature goes up five degrees by the end of the next century, we may lose our furry polar friends for good.

BONUS ACTIVITY!

Dear Journal,

I have finally returned from my travels, only to find this awful, awful news waiting for me! I must be more careful in using water, energy and other resources around me from now on. I shall have to include a section in the Gardens that teaches everyone the importance of caring for the Earth. I shall call it... "Earth Check"! I will start by making a list of the things I can do to help protect the Earth!

My List of Things to Do to Protect the Earth!
